Accent on Youth

Foreword

Almost every age thinks that it is the most important in the history of mankind. Whether this age is the most important or not, it does present crucial challenges which today's youth must face--the challenge of ever-shrinking geographical barriers, the challenge of awesomely destructive military weapons, and the challenge of the boundless reaches of outer space.

For students of Huntington High School these challenges will be tremendously significant.

The elimination of the old barriers which formerly separated men means that Huntington students must join in the effort to bring better understanding among the world's races, religions, and nations.

The development of weapons of terrifying destructiveness which may be hurled thousands of miles with pinpoint accuracy indicates that Huntington students must participate in the quest for world peace.

The probing of man into the vast reaches of outer space suggests that Huntington students must contribute their share toward cooperative exploration which will add to the store of human knowledge and happiness, not heighten the danger of devastating warfare.

Along with other young people of this nation and the world, Huntington students must face and accept these challenges. That is why, in this yearbook, we place our ACCENT ON YOUTH.

In Memoriam

ADA JONES
1943 - 1960

JOHN FLOOD
1942 - 1959

We dedicate the 1961 HUNTINGTONIAN to our former classmates, Ada Jones and John Flood, whom Death removed from us in the prime of their youth.

"THEY SHALL NOT GROW OLD AS WE THAT ARE LEFT GROW OLD:
AGE SHALL NOT WEARY THEM NOR THE YEARS CONDEMN.
AT THE GOING DOWN OF THE SUN AND IN THE MORNING
WE WILL REMEMBER THEM."

---BENYON

The School Board of Newport News

"FOR AGE IS OPPORTUNITY NO LESS THAN YOUTH ITSELF, THOUGH IN ANOTHER DRESS . . . "
--LONGFELLOW

The Newport News School Board is a group of taxpayers who are elected by the people of Newport News to represent them in matters concerning property maintenance and administration of the city's schools. We are grateful for the careful consideration the Board gives in arriving at each decision.

Administration Ably Guides Huntington Youth

"AGE IN A VIRTUOUS PERSON, OF EITHER SEX, CARRIES IN IT AN AUTHORITY WHICH MAKES IT PREFERABLE TO ALL THE PLEASURES OF YOUTH."

--STEELE

Whether beaming proudly at the latest athletic trophy or working out a report, our Principal, Mr. W. D. Scales, is a well-known and familiar figure at Huntington. As a friend or as a principal, he can't be beat, in the opinion of most of the students. He holds meetings, interviews new teachers, make announcements, frowns upon "bad" boys, and smiles at "good" ones. There's always more to do, and he doesn't mind helping people with individual problems. Seniors can tell you this when college time "rolls" around.

Mrs. V. J. Newby, our charming and efficient school secretary, works closely with the Principal. Co-operation is the key word to our office success.

"THEREFORE I SUMMON AGE TO GRANT YOUTH'S HERITAGE."
--BROWNING

Administrative duties aren't the only ones performed by our able Assistant Principal, Mr. Raney. His wise counsel, ready wit, and sympathetic attention endear him to teachers and students alike.

Mrs. E. M. Green gives freely of her knowledge, counsel, and sympathy in carrying out her duties as Guidance Director and Assistant Principal.

Directing the testing program is one of the many duties rendered by Mrs. Nancy Carter, Assistant Guidance Director. Seniors know her best as her time is spent largely in checking their records, helping them to gain admission into college, and providing them with vocational materials.

The Office Is the Heart of the School

Mrs. Kea (center), the school's financial secretary, collects and keeps a record of the school's money. Mrs. Newby (left) and Mrs. Darden (right) help to check an entry in the account book.

Whether answering the telephone, recording grades, signing sick or tardy excuses, giving helpful advice to students, checking monthly reports, making school-wide announcements, or issuing a monthly "item of interest" to the staff, the office staff performs the multiple duties which make the office the heart of the school. Always courteous and efficient, our office staff keeps the machinery of the school running smoothly.

Pausing between their duties are Mrs. Newby and Mrs. Darden.

Seniors

Sylvia Crutchfield tries for the correct angle on her hat.

Henry Lyons, Carolyn Allen, Joanne Mills, and Iris Taylor help each other with their caps and gowns.

Seniors Prepare for Graduation

Close to 240 seniors of the class of 1961 received their diplomas in an impressive outdoor ceremony in June. Upon their arrival five years ago the class had 410 members. As juniors they elected Clarence Grant, president; Sandra Russell, vice president; Joyce Bowser, secretary; Sampson Robinson, treasurer; and Catherine Brooks, chaplain. Lillian Jones was runner-up for Miss Homecoming.

A look at their five years at Huntington High School during the weeks before graduation brought many memories of triumphs, joys, and shared experiences, as well as some sadness at the thought that carefree high school days were over.

Ralph Christian and Verdell Williams can hardly believe the big day has arrived.

Another big thrill occurs on the day class rings arrive. Mr. Calloway, class sponsor, checks Jeannette Hamlin's finger for size. Awaiting their turns are Leola Flemming, Mack Owens, Paul Owens, and Ellistine Jacobs.

Youth — What Does It Mean?

"Life's most precious gift is the period of youth. The world would be a dull, monotonous, and dreary place if there were no young people to spark the imagination and fancy of the adults."

--- Margery Browne, '61

"To make the world a better place in which to live is the challenge of today's youth. Opportunities are abundant; and, if youth will take advantage of them, a better world will soon become a reality."

---Clarence Grant, '61

"To me youth is the most important period of life. It is a phase of life in which one experiences happiness, laughter, and hope. It is a time to prepare for the future."

---Geraldine Carr, '61

"The youth of today owe it to themselves and to future generations to guarantee strong foundations for tomorrow's world by participating actively in the endeavors of today's world."

---Sandra Russell, '61

"I once thought of youth as the beginning of fun, the learning of beautiful ideals, and the starting of a rich, full, dedicated life. Now I picture youth as the beginning of toil, worry, sweat, and tears."

---Alice Davis, '61

"Youth's carefree state is by far the most precious gift it possesses. This gift will not be fully appreciated until the gleeful, unconcerned days of youth become filled with serious responsibilities."

---Esther Crayton, '61

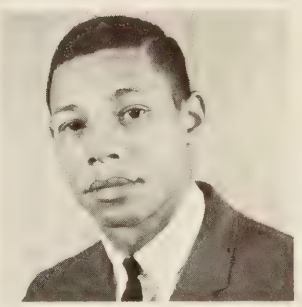

"Some of our youth dream of being rich and famous, and others dream of trivial and materialistic things. As far as I am concerned, I dream of a better America and of what I can do to make America a better country. I will fight, suffer humiliation, and bear any cross to keep my country free and strong.

---Joanne Mills, '61

"Today there is a constant growth of automation, disunity among and within nations, and declining religious fervor and loyalty. The challenge of today's youth is to solve these problems without war and destruction."

---Ulysses Shepherd, '61

"Today's youth must prepare adequately for the future. They must develop sharp minds and maintain healthy bodies to enable them to meet the problems ahead."

---Alexander Gaines, '61

"Youth is one of the stages of life through which each person goes. To insure the continuing circle of life, each stage must adequately fulfill its obligation to the other. Hence, adulthood has the responsibility to train youth, and youth has the responsibility to become mature adults."

---Seward Hunter, '61

Mrs. Bland explains verb tense to her class.

Languages taught at Huntington include English, French, and this year for the first time, Spanish. Since language--English, that is--is a requirement for all pupils, the Language Department reaches each pupil in the school and provides a variety of activities and experiences throughout the year.

Preparing reading lists for their classes are a group of English teachers. Around the table are Mrs. Santiful, Mrs. Jones, and Mrs. Lovett, while Mrs. Gloster, Mr. Jones, Department Chairman, Mrs. Granberry, and Mrs. Braxton are standing.

Language Skills

One of the Department's projects for the year was the revision of the English course of study for the school. Here Mrs. Collins, Miss Knight, Mr. Calloway, Miss Hayes, Miss Thomas, and Miss Haynes meet to discuss revisions and additions.

"Is that my voice?" was the question most frequently asked by the members of the Speech Class as they listened to their voices for the first time on the tape recorder. Pupils in speech participated in debates, choral speaking, forums, and other activities during the year. Mrs. Gloster, speech instructor, is helping Mary Whitaker and Novella Wooden to record their voices while the class members look on.

Audio-visual equipment, especially records and the tape recorder, aid pupils in learning a foreign language. Mr. Jones, Miss Frazier, Mr. Lawrence, and Mrs. Grandberry check the materials for use in their classes. Skill in writing, speaking, and reading Spanish and French is stressed in these classes as well as a familiarity with the customs and peoples of Spain and France.

Students Learn Spanish and French

"The Eiffel Tower is one of the big tourist attractions in France," explains Miss Frazier, French teacher, to Carolyn Winstead, a beginning student in French.

Harold Valentine, senior, finds the card catalogue useful in locating research material.

Mary Ellis turns on the persuasive charms of youth as she talks to Miss Ruth Mealy, librarian, about an overdue book. Mary Williams also finds the library helpful.

Library Plays Significant Role

Mẹmbers of Miss Haynes' English class learn the use of the library as part of their class work. All eighth graders must participate in this library study unit. Mrs. Joyce Wilson, assistant librarian, teaches the unit to all eighth graders.

Trigonometry is for the valiant! Miss Weaver's "valiant" trig class works on problems and computations. Students from this class receive college credit from nearby Hampton Institute.

Math Keeps Pupils Counting

Mathematics play an important role in the academic life of Huntington students. The Department of Mathematics offers a variety of courses for the math-minded pupil. These include general math, algebra, geometry, trigonometry, as well as a college freshman math class for more advanced students.

--- DROMGOOLE

Mrs. Hill, Department chairman, and Mr. Yancey, teacher in the Department, check some pointers together for their classes.

Social Studies Prepare Youth for Better Living

Mr. Hooker leads his class in world history in an animated discussion of world problems.

Social Studies teachers -- Mr. Barr, Miss Shaw, Miss Riley, Mr. Milo, Mr. Turner, Miss Whittington, Miss Campbell, and Mr. Hooker -- gather for their weekly Departmental meeting.

"And this is the route of the first atomic submarine to sail under the North Pole," states Mr. Carter, history teacher to students, Robinetta Ellis and Frank Shields.

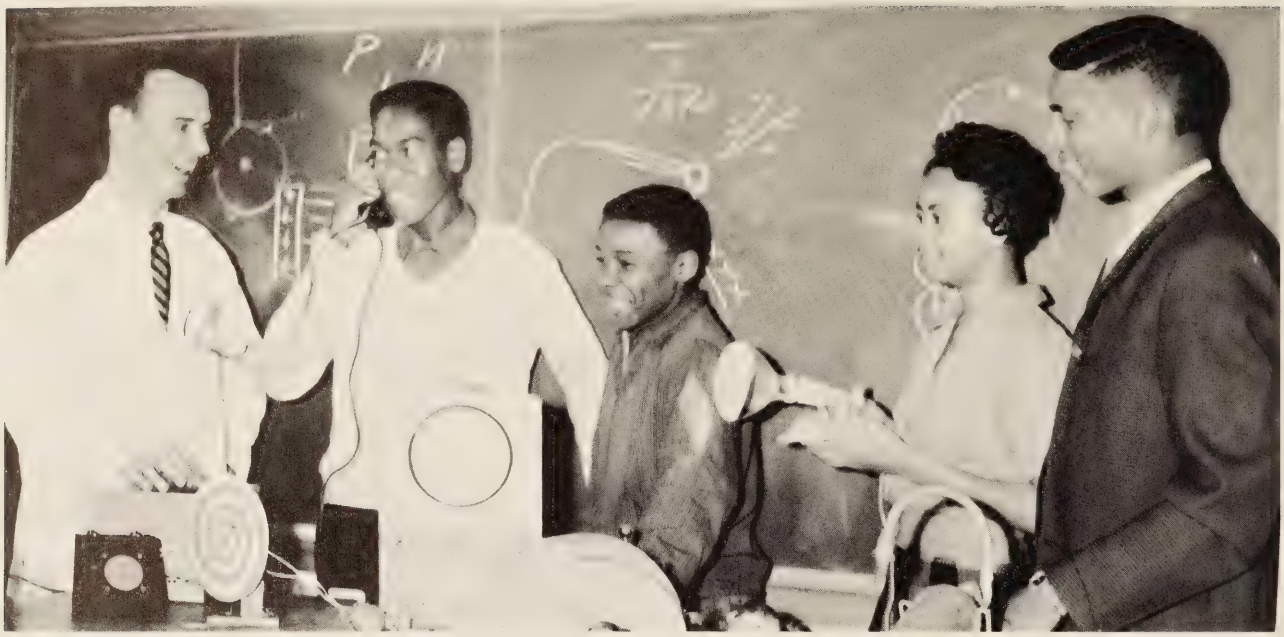

Biology pupils study the structure of animals. Cynthia Coleman and Irma Thomas examine a grasshopper while classmates use the microscope.

Science: Now and the Future

Because there is so much competition in the scientific field today among nations, it is necessary to encourage science in the schools. Huntington tries to prepare its pupils for the space age by offering an adequate science program which includes general science, biology, chemistry, and physics.

Biology teacher, Miss Perry, Department Chairman, and Mr. Harris look over models of prehistoric animals.

Seniors John Bandy, Walter Atkins, Sandra Russell, and William Banks operate a solar-powered telephone with the aid of Mr. Clifton Foster, traveling science teacher from the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

General Science teachers in an informal pose. SEATED: Mrs. Wilson, Mr. Stith, and Mrs. Fortune. STANDING: Mr. Alston, Miss Briggs, and Mr. Rollins.

"THE YOUTH GETS TOGETHER HIS MATERIALS TO BUILD A BRIDGE TO THE MOON, OR, PERCHANCE, A PALACE OR TEMPLE ON THE EARTH . . . "

-------THOREAU

Physics--the study of natural sciences--is taught by Mr. Johnson. The class engages in a variety of activities and projects throughout the term.

Chemistry pupils Frances Shorts, James Anderson, Theodore Holman, and LaVerne Savage listen intently to Mr. Holmes, instructor, during an experiment. Could be they're afraid of what's in the test tube?

General Science pupil Arthur Price explains the principles of the bunsen burner to his class.

Home Ec Pupils Enjoy Their Art

Mrs. Lucas lends a helping hand to Amelia Watkins.

The fine art of making biscuits is illustrated by Delores McIntyre and Carolyn Parker.

Mrs. Carter and Mrs. Cobb approve this pattern for their beginning sewing class.

Boys in a food class? Of course! Some people think men make better cooks than women. So, what's cooking?

Pupils Strive for Business Skills

The business curriculum consists of beginning and advanced typewriting, general business, bookkeeping, and beginning and advanced shorthand. Four teachers handle a total of over 400 pupils daily.

Miss Wynder and Mrs. Hines, business teachers, confer on a point in the textbook.

Students in a shorthand class take dictation from recordings. Miss Jackson supervises the work in this class.

Mr. Royster, typing instructor, gives Delores Bailey a few helpful hints for use in increasing her typing speed. Typing classes compose the backbone of the business curriculum.

Whenever the weather permits, the physical education classes go outdoor for activities. Here a group of boys engage in a game of football.

Students Engage in Athletic Activity

"THE DAYS OF OUR YOUTH ARE THE DAYS OF OUR GLORY."
---SHAKESPEARE

In this age, when machines cause man to sit more than ever, it is vital for growing boys and girls to receive stimulating physical exercise. The Physical Education Department meets this need by providing each pupil with a variety of healthful physical activities.

Physical Education Teachers--Mrs. Jennings, Mrs. Lipscombe, Mrs. Francis, Mrs. Lucas, Mr. Crittenden, Mr. Hines, and Mr. Madden.

Coach Kane blows the whistle for the limbering-up exercises in his class of eighth grade boys.

General Shop is taken by eighth grade boys as an introduction to the field of industrial arts. Boys make articles which they keep. Mr. McGhee is the instructor. Boys are Larry Jenkins, Clyde Long, Willie Newby, Clyde Moody, Frank Brooks, and Ernest Brown.

Mr. Jones' class in woodwork gains valuable experiences in the art of working with wood. Some articles made by the class include wall racks, lamps, shoe shine boxes, step tables, record cabinets, and hi-fi cabinets.

" . . . THE VERY MAY-MORN OF HIS YOUTH,
RIPE FOR EXPLOITS AND MIGHTY ENTERPRISES."
--- SHAKESPEARE

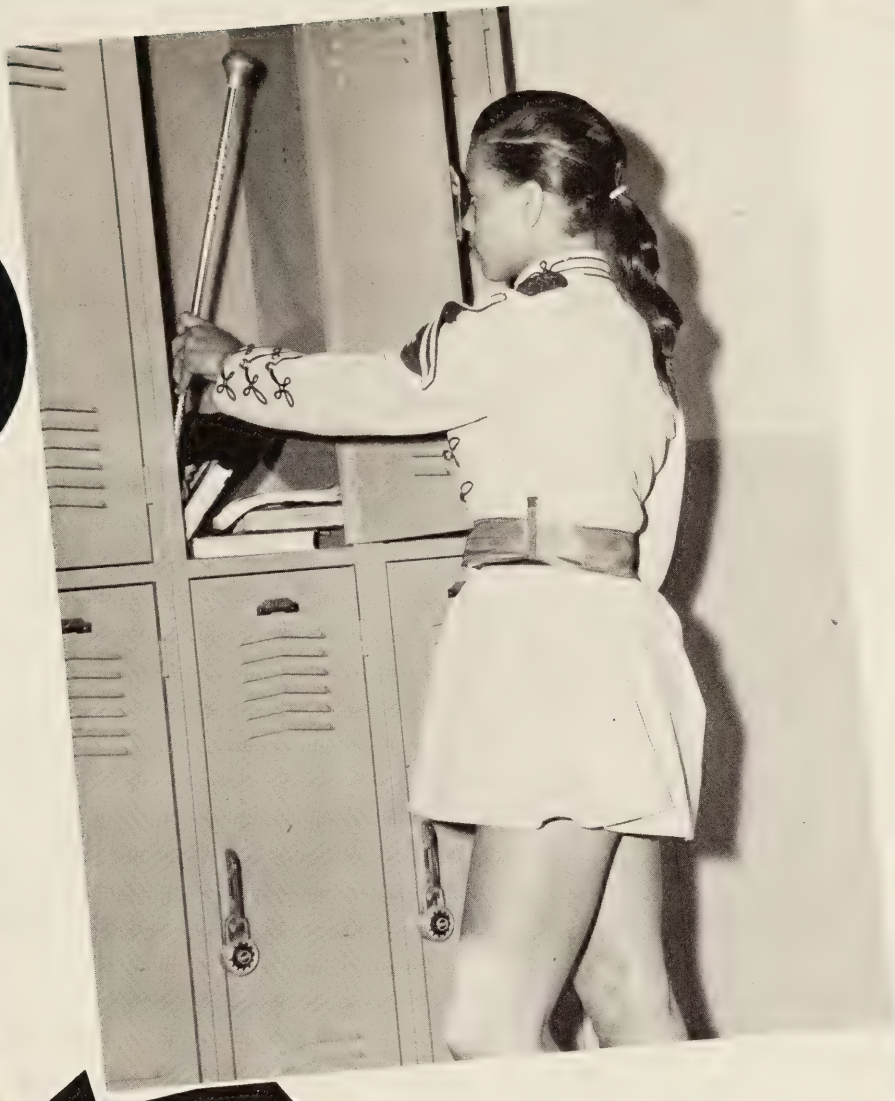

Mr. J. T. Brown, instructor, looks over the work of senior, Paul Lewis.

Learn by Doing . . .

The class in masonry illustrates the philosophy of the educator John Dewey, who advocates learning by doing. Masonry is a three-hour shop class. Members of this class have no trouble finding jobs in the building field.

Busily laying bricks are Thomas Evans, Jerry Fauntleroy, Joseph Harris, and Samuel Brown.

The Brains Behind the Book

Enthusiastic is the word that describes the '61 HUNTINGTONIAN staff. Believing they were doing something important for the student body, the staff worked hard to produce a representative annual. Ably sponsored by Mrs. B. H. Gloster, whose '60 staff produced an award-winning yearbook, and headed by Editor William Patterson and Associate Editor Sandra Russell, the staff worked regularly after school to complete copy and meet deadlines.

DEPARTMENTAL STAFF: Iris Taylor, Camille Atkins, Sygnora Fogg, Louise Horton, Janice Rainey, Margery Browne, Catherine Brooks, Ronald Buie, and Sylvia Crutchfield.

The library is a familiar place to the National Honor Society and seemed a logical place to pose. SEATED: Carolyn Dunn, Walter Atkins, Sandra Russell, Alphonso Perry, Esther Crayton, Theresa Howard, and Clarence Grant. STANDING: Otis Richardson, William Patterson, Alice Davis, and Spurgeon Woodard.

Honor Society Stresses Scholarship and Service

Scholarly is the word which best describes the members of the National Honor Society, which stresses high scholarship as well as service, leadership, and character as prerequisites for membership.

Various social and civic programs sponsored by the group during the year were highly successful. The Thanksgiving Meditation Services gave a spiritual lift to the entire school, and the assembly programs were interesting and informative. In the community the Honor Society and the Scholastic Achievement Club sponsored programs in city institutions for the ill and imprisoned.

Sponsors: Miss Riley and Miss Shaw and President, Walter Atkins.

President Daniel Jackson illustrates a mathematical principle to Math Club members. Margaret Hicks, Victoria Perkins, and Patricia Charity look on.

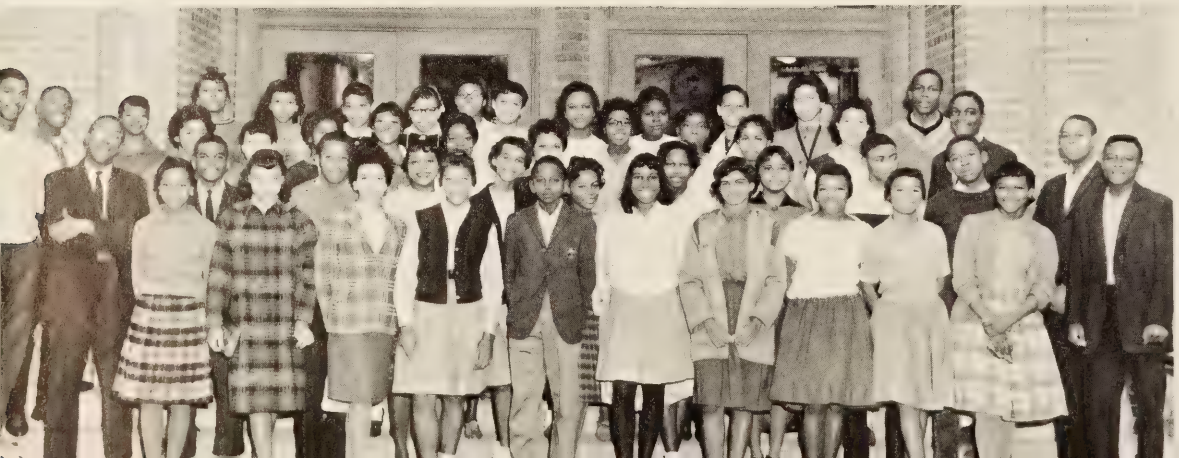

Math-Science

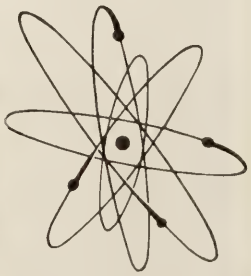

Interest Increases

For today's youth much emphasis is placed on the fields of mathematics and science. Ever-increasing inventions of a mathematical and scientific nature demand the training of alert, logical, and scientific minds. At Huntington these demands are seen in the increasing size and activities of the Math-Science organizations and in the interest demonstrated by the members of these groups.

James Jones demonstrates the operation of rocket-fuel engines to Science Club members Amona Darden, Shelley Rambeau, and Frances Bouldin.

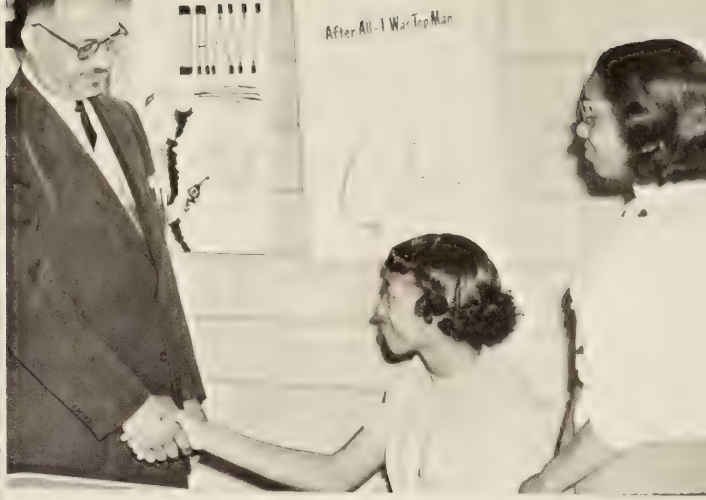

The Science Club

President Alice Davis and Esther Crayton compile a "How We Can Improve the Prestige of Huntington High School" survey conducted by the F.T.A.

Gwendolyn Perry and Brenda Jones greet P.T.A. President Otis Smith during American Education Week Observance. Mr. Smith gave a school-wide talk during devotions.

F. T. A. Has Busy Year

A busy year of varied projects was sponsored by the Charles R. Drew Chapter of the Future Teachers of America. The local chapter organized the first state-wide conference of F.T.A. clubs, and three of its members were elected to state offices. These were Janice Rainey, chaplain; Jeannette Johnson, financial secretary; and Kathleen Johnson, reporter. It also presented a Let's Get Acquainted Social for the new Huntington teachers and a program for the inmates of Patrick Henry Hospital. The club also attended the second annual state meeting at West End School in Clarksville.

Alice Davis and Purcell Brown are shown in a scene from the F.T.A. American Education Week skit.

World of Work Beckons to D. O. Students

To train for the world of work is an essential task of youth. Through the diversified occupations programs, Huntington pupils receive valuable experiences to aid them in this task. D. O. students are placed in trade, industrial, and business establishments in the students' fields of interest. Part of the school day is spent receiving on-the-job experiences.

--- INGELOW

Clarence Grant, president of the Huntington Student Council, officers, and committee chairmen plan for the Eighth Grade Orientation Program, which lasts throughout the first semester. The Council also assists the administration in directing student activities and in pointing up and helping to solve student problems.

Student Council Contributes to School Program

Frequent confabs between Clarence Grant, Council prexy, and Miss Smith, sponsor, are necessary for the smooth operation of the Council.

One duty of the Student Patrol, which is a branch of the Student Council, is to direct the traffic at lunch time. William Patterson (far left), who is intent on his duty, has served as Student Patrol Captain for three years. Seniors Daniel Jackson and Vivian Sawyer are serving as cashiers. Both are Student Council members.

School Scribes Enjoy Their Work

To the sentimentalists a school newspaper means a life-long record of their high school days. To student writers the school newspaper provides practical experience in journalistic writing. To all students the paper is a service. Reporting, composing, revising, editing--all the activities of the paper are performed to serve the best interests of the student body. Composed of volunteers workers, the MIRROR is published quarterly by the staff members as an extra-curricular activity.

Reporters analyze copies of the school paper to get new slants for the next issue. SEATED: Dorothy Tribble, Alfred Moses, Johnny Davis, Helen Boone, Toledo Boone, and Janet Birtchett. STANDING: Elsie Walker, Edward Norris, and James Hall.

"A good picture is worth a thousand words." The value of effective news pictures is immeasurable. Photographers William Banks, Ronald Buie, and Arnold Melvin edit pictures.

Social Studies Club Increases World Awareness

Since today's youth are tomorrow's leaders, the Social Studies Club tries to prepare its members for this task by stimulating an awareness of and an interest in national and world problems. Mr. Hooker, sponsor, Henry Boone, and James Hall point out world trouble spots to members of the Social Studies Club.

Industrial Club Promotes Trade Interest

Using a hand-tooled leather bag made by a member of the Industrial Arts Club, Mr. Hale, sponsor, points out some principles of leather designing. In addition to learning how to make various articles, the group also sponsors exhibits, attends conferences, and participates in special school activities. Jean Law is president of the group.

Future Nurses Share Interest in Medicine

Members of the Clara Barton Future Nurses of America Club are joined by their common interest in nursing. Activities for the year include making hospital visits, seeing education films, and making posters on health habits.

Dramatic Club Strives for Creativity

With all the attentiveness of youth, the members of the Dramatics Club listen as Elsie Walker tries out for a part in the spring play. Other members seated are: Claudia Ramsey, Jessie Scott, Shirley Hughes, Alice Davis, Walter Bridges, and Fred Futrell. Standing are: Clarence Grant and Edward Norris.

Service Is Key of New Homemakers

Acting as a service-growing unit to the school and community, the New Homemakers of America is the national organization of Negro pupils studying homemaking in junior and senior Negro high schools. An incorporated non-profit youth organization, this group strives to live up to its motto: "Better Homes for a Better Nation."

Future Business Leaders Prepare for Employment

The mastery of office skills, practices, and management is the goal of the Huntington Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America. The officers of the club—Sylvia Lungsford, Amaza Grant, Barbara Adkins, Annie McCluney, Lillian Jones, and Anita Jordan—demonstrate these skills.

"WHAT ONE KNOWS IS, IN YOUTH, OF LITTLE MOMENT:

Hobbies Provide Fun, Experience

To learn how to use leisure time wisely is the primary aim of the Hobby Club. Its members gain knowledge of and experience in arts and crafts as well as in printing, ornamental metal work, model making, and electronics.

Busily engaged in making a hi-fi cabinet, Ronald Buie pursues his hobby in electronics.

As a part of his hobby in metal crafts, Wray Herring makes a water storage tank.

Mrs. Newby, chairman of the P.T.A. Membership Drive, presents an award to Henry Johnson, president of Room 206. The class won over other homerooms in securing the largest number of financial members. Miss Venable, homeroom teacher, and members of the winning homeroom smile their approval.

One of the special services to the school is performed by Nurse Holloway, who checks our temperatures, diagnoses our ills, and performs many other health services including--oh, happy day--giving us a sick slip to leave school.

A very special service is rendered by the maintenance staff, who keep our building clean, shining, warm, and comfortable as well as perform an abundance of other services.

The Huntington High School Choir is a source of pleasure for the school and for the community. Directed by Mr. Arthur Bouldin, the Choir is the winner of many awards and consistently receives a superior rating at district and state music festivals.

Accompanists Sandra Layne and Juanita Malloy together with the Tenor Section of the Choir.

High School Choir

There are many highlights in the Choir's busy year. Their activities include the annual Christmas concert, spring recital, appearances on radio and television, numbers for Commencement and Baccalureate exercises, and other programs in the community and state. This active schedule makes it necessary for the Choir to have a number of before-school and after-school rehearsal periods.

The Huntington

Divided into three groups--beginners, intermediates, and advanced students--the Huntington High School Band draws many of its members from students who have received previous training in the elementary schools of the city. Members of the senior band are given opportunities to perform with the dance band in small assemblies and as instrumental soloists. The senior marching band appears at athletic contests and in parades, while the symphonic group participates in assembly programs and in festivals.

High Spirits Spark

Miss Homecoming, Victoria Perkins, waves to her subjects.

Homecoming, 1960, was an event that will stand out sharply in the memories of Huntingtonians. Long hours were spent in preparation for the big day. Candidates for the queens campaigned each morning over the p.a. systems, and their faces smiled down from posters and pictures on the walls. Although the homecoming parade had been eliminated from the observance, colorful cars, streamers, and decorations lent an air of excitement to the half-time ceremony, during which Miss Homecoming was crowned. This year the class of 1952 was honored, and Miss Homecoming of 1952 and her attendants were present looking as pretty as they did in '52. Climaxing the gala day was the 26-7 victory over previously undefeated Booker T. Washington. Huntingtonians celebrated at the annual Homecoming dance and whirled to gay music for hours. Streamers now lie about and the dance floor is empty, but Homecoming of 1960 will remain in every heart.

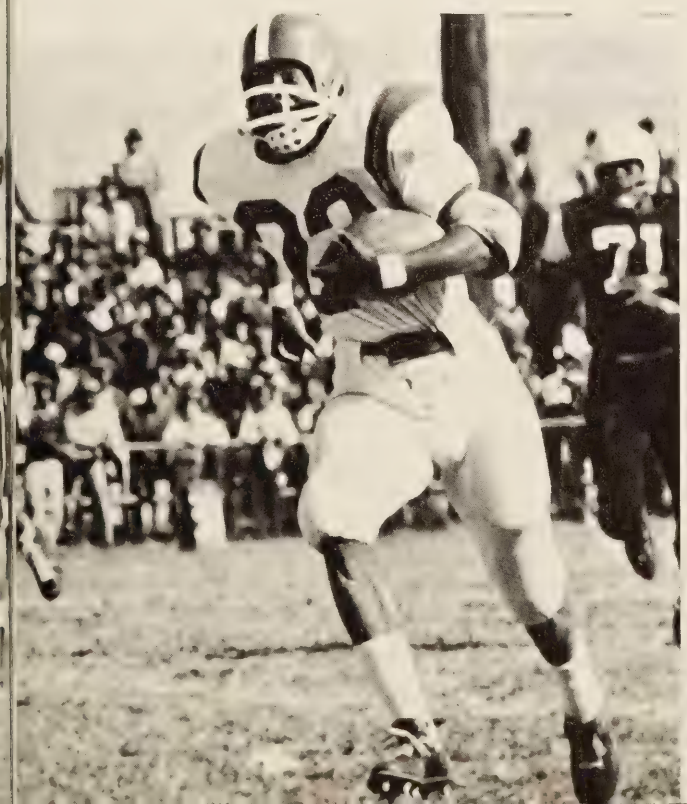

This exciting play resulted in a touchdown for the Vikings.

Viking Cagers Cop Early Contests

John Reese, guard, races down the court, preparing to defend the goal against the Carver Trojans.

A proud 6-1 record belonged to the Viking cagers at the time the HUNTINGTONIAN went to press. Having downed Maggie Walker, Phenix, Northampton, Princess Anne, and Carver High Schools, the Vikings prepared for East Suffolk, Norcom, Crestwood, and Booker T. Washington High Schools as well as for return bouts with the former group. The Vikings also divided a pair of return tilts with Armstrong. Returning players James Grey, John Reese, Tommy Carroll, Ernest Buggs, and Edward Byrd combined with outstanding rookies Howard Montgomery, Calvin Thomas, Clifton Gilchrist, Charles Hill, Reginald Curtis, and Mack Owens to make a winning team. Other stalwart players also contributed their talents.

Available scores from games played to date follow:

Tennis Takes the Limelight

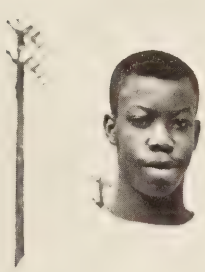

One of spring's welcome sounds is the whiz of a tennis ball as it is smashed back and forth across the net. Not as well developed as some other Huntington sports, (we play only four schools--Phenix, Norcom, Crestwood, and Carver), tennis still affords much excitement and thrills for its players and fans. Although the Vikings dominate Phenix, its arch rival, in football, the Baby Pirates usually come out ahead at the net. Each year Viking netters look forward to the V.I.A. State Tournament and the Interscholastic Tournament in Greensboro, North Carolina.

Clarence Small demonstrates his powerful overhand serve.

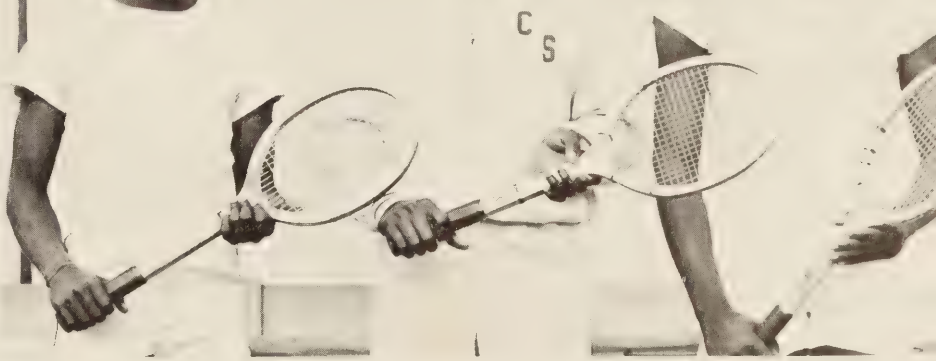

Phillip McCallum gets ready for the return smack as he plays the net.

THE STAFF OF THE 1961 HUNTINGTONIAN WISHES to express its deepest appreciation to everyone whose contributions helped to make the publication of this annual possible. The Staff is especially grateful to the following persons:

OUR ADVISOR: MRS. B. H. GLOSTER--for providing valuable leadership, inexhaustible service, countless hours of work, never-ending patience, and keen interest.

THE 1961 HUNTINGTONIAN COMMITTEE--for giving cooperation and guidance in all projects.

MR. W. D. SCALES, PRINCIPAL, AND MR. G. WESLEY RANEY, ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL--for providing useful advice and genuine interest in the success of the annual, cooperating in scheduling of picture-taking activities, and in guiding the Staff in numerous other ways.

THE SENIOR CLASS--for meeting its financial obligations, providing necessary information, and cooperation in many other activities.

THE TEACHING STAFF--for giving cooperation and expressing interest in our progress.

MR. RALPH McGHEE--for furnishing pictures of activities and helping to solve our daily problems.

MR. FRED WHITING--for providing cheerful and patient services in his capacity as yearbook photographer.

NOTE: The development of the theme and the selection of the quotations for the youth motif used in this yearbook are the original creation of the Staff and sponsor of the 1961 HUNTINGTONIAN.

FRIENDS OF MY YOUTH, A LAST ADIEU!
HAPLY SOME DAY WE SHALL MEET AGAIN;
YET NE'ER THE SELFSAME MEN SHALL MEET;
THE YEARS SHALL MAKE US OTHER MEN.

For magic moments of refreshment

EVERYONE'S FOR COKE!

When the problem concerns a student tired with the strain of studing, the answer is quite likely to be: Coca-Cola—a frosty bottle of delicious Coke. Here is quality refreshment, with a bright, right taste and a tantalizing tingle all its own. Have a Coke...and get back to work refreshed!

The Builders Proudly Present a Blue Riband Speed Winner... The

S. S. UNITED STATES

Sailing ships built in the Colonies from 1750 onwards swept all before them on the oceans of the world. But not since the SAVANNAH of 1819 and the Collins Line Ships of 1849, has America been a successful competitor for Atlantic steamship honors. The winning of this honor has done much to restore the prestige of the American Merchant Marine and demonstrate to the world that shipbuilding in the United States is unexcelled.
